CONTEXT

The MOT has conducted a study with the aim of improving the connection between the cohesion policy, governance systems and cross-border territorial needs.

Running from June 2011 to October 2012, this project took into account two major reforms: at the European level, the development of the framework for cohesion policy 2014-2020, and at the French level, the redefinition of the cross-border policy within the context of the decentralization process.

The results of the study are based on more than 70 interviews with major players of cross-border cooperation at the French borders. A French-Italian work meeting has allowed to test the recommendations of the study and the coherence of French and Italian cross-border policies.

The findings of this work are aimed at local authorities, national governments, the European Commission, programme authorities, and by and large to all players involved in cross-border cooperation. Their purpose is to improve cooperation at French borders.

The conclusions of the study are summed up in a methodological guide and are presented during the final conference organised on 24th October 2012 in Paris.
